

Blood Pressure Tracker

Keep a record of your progress

Writing down your blood pressure (BP) daily is a good way for you to monitor your progress and show your doctor how you're doing. Bring your filled-out tracker to your next appointment.

- Check your BP at the same time each day
- Don't move while you're measuring your BP
- Make sure you're sitting with your back straight and both feet flat on the floor. Support the arm with the BP cuff on a flat surface at heart level
- Record the time and your BP reading
- Review with your doctor at your next appointment
